DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

Restriction is required under 35 U.S.C. 121 and 372.

This application contains the following inventions or groups of inventions which are not so linked as to form a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1.

In accordance with 37 CFR 1.499, applicant is required, in reply to this action, to elect a single invention to which the claims must be restricted.

Group I, claim(s) 108 and 109, drawn to a method for gathering genetic information.

Group II, claim(s) 110-121, drawn to a method.

Group III, claim(s) 122-127, drawn to a method for evaluating a disorder.

The inventions listed as groups I-III do not relate to a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1 because, under PCT Rule 13.2, they lack the same or corresponding special technical features for the following reasons:

A method comprising: a) identifying a plurality of human individuals characterized by a disorder or having a genetic relationship with an subject characterized by the disorder; b) comparing distribution of a plurality of genetic markers among the subjects of the first plurality to distribution of markers of the plurality of genetic markers among subjects of a second plurality of human subjects, wherein the human subjects of the second plurality have attained at least 90 years of age, the method recited in claim 22, was known in the art at the time of invention as demonstrated by Kawamata et al. ("Apolipoprotein E polymorphism in Japanese patients with Alzheimer's disease or vascular dementia" J Neurol Neurosurg Psychiatry. 1994 Nov;57(11):1414-6; pg. 1414-1415, patients and methods; Kawamata teach a study of the relationship between a polymorphism in Alipoprotein E and Alzheimer's Disease with control patients of at least 90 years of age).

The said method cannot therefore be considered a special technical feature, as lack of unity rules hold that a feature known to a person of ordinary skill in the art makes no advance over the prior art.

This application contains claims directed to the following patentably distinct species

SIRT1 Molecule

- (a) SIRT1 polypeptide
- (b) SIRT1 nucleic acid

The species are independent or distinct because claims to the different species recite the mutually exclusive characteristics of such species. In addition, these species are not obvious variants of each other based on the current record.

Applicant is required under 35 U.S.C. 121 to elect a single disclosed species for prosecution on the merits to which the claims shall be restricted if no generic claim is finally held to be allowable. Currently, claim 110 is generic.

There is an examination and search burden for these patentably distinct species due to their mutually exclusive characteristics. The species require a different field of search (e.g., searching different classes/subclasses or electronic resources, or employing different search queries); and/or the prior art applicable to one species would not likely be applicable to another species; and/or the species are likely to raise different non-prior art issues under 35 U.S.C. 101 and/or 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph.

Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include (i) an election of a species to be examined even though the requirement may be traversed (37 CFR 1.143) and (ii) identification of the claims encompassing the elected species, including any claims subsequently added. An argument that a claim is allowable or that all claims are generic is considered nonresponsive unless accompanied by an election.

The election of the species may be made with or without traverse. To preserve a right to petition, the election must be made with traverse. If the reply does not distinctly and specifically point out supposed errors in the election of species requirement, the election shall be treated as an election without traverse. Traversal must be presented at the time of election in order to be considered timely. Failure to timely traverse the requirement will result in the loss of right to petition under 37 CFR 1.144. If claims are added after the election, applicant must indicate which of these claims are readable on the elected species.

Should applicant traverse on the ground that the species are not patentably distinct, applicant should submit evidence or identify such evidence now of record showing the species to be obvious variants or clearly admit on the record that this is the case. In either instance, if the examiner finds one of the species unpatentable over the prior art, the evidence or admission may be used in a rejection under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) of the other species.

Upon the allowance of a generic claim, applicant will be entitled to consideration of claims to additional species which depend from or otherwise require all the limitations of an allowable generic claim as provided by 37 CFR 1.141.
